We've got the scoop on the latest troublemaker in Angel Grove—Rita's brother, Rito Revolto. You'll laugh with us at jokes sent in by readers and get the chance to write some of your own. Don't miss the exclusive interviews with the newest members of the PR team and—have we got a surprise for you!—a new Pink Ranger, my friend Kat.

Billy's got some cool science fun for you in "Hot Air" and a race game to send you into space. And of course we have an awesome new comic story, with the Power Rangers battling the latest monster from Lord Zedd, the incredible, edible Vegetabully.

Make sure you check out the hottest new alien in town, the Masked Rider; our "Newsbytes," where we go to the hottest new movies; and, finally, my own readers' survey, 'cause I want to know what you think of our magazine.

That's it! See you later!

Your friend,

Aisha

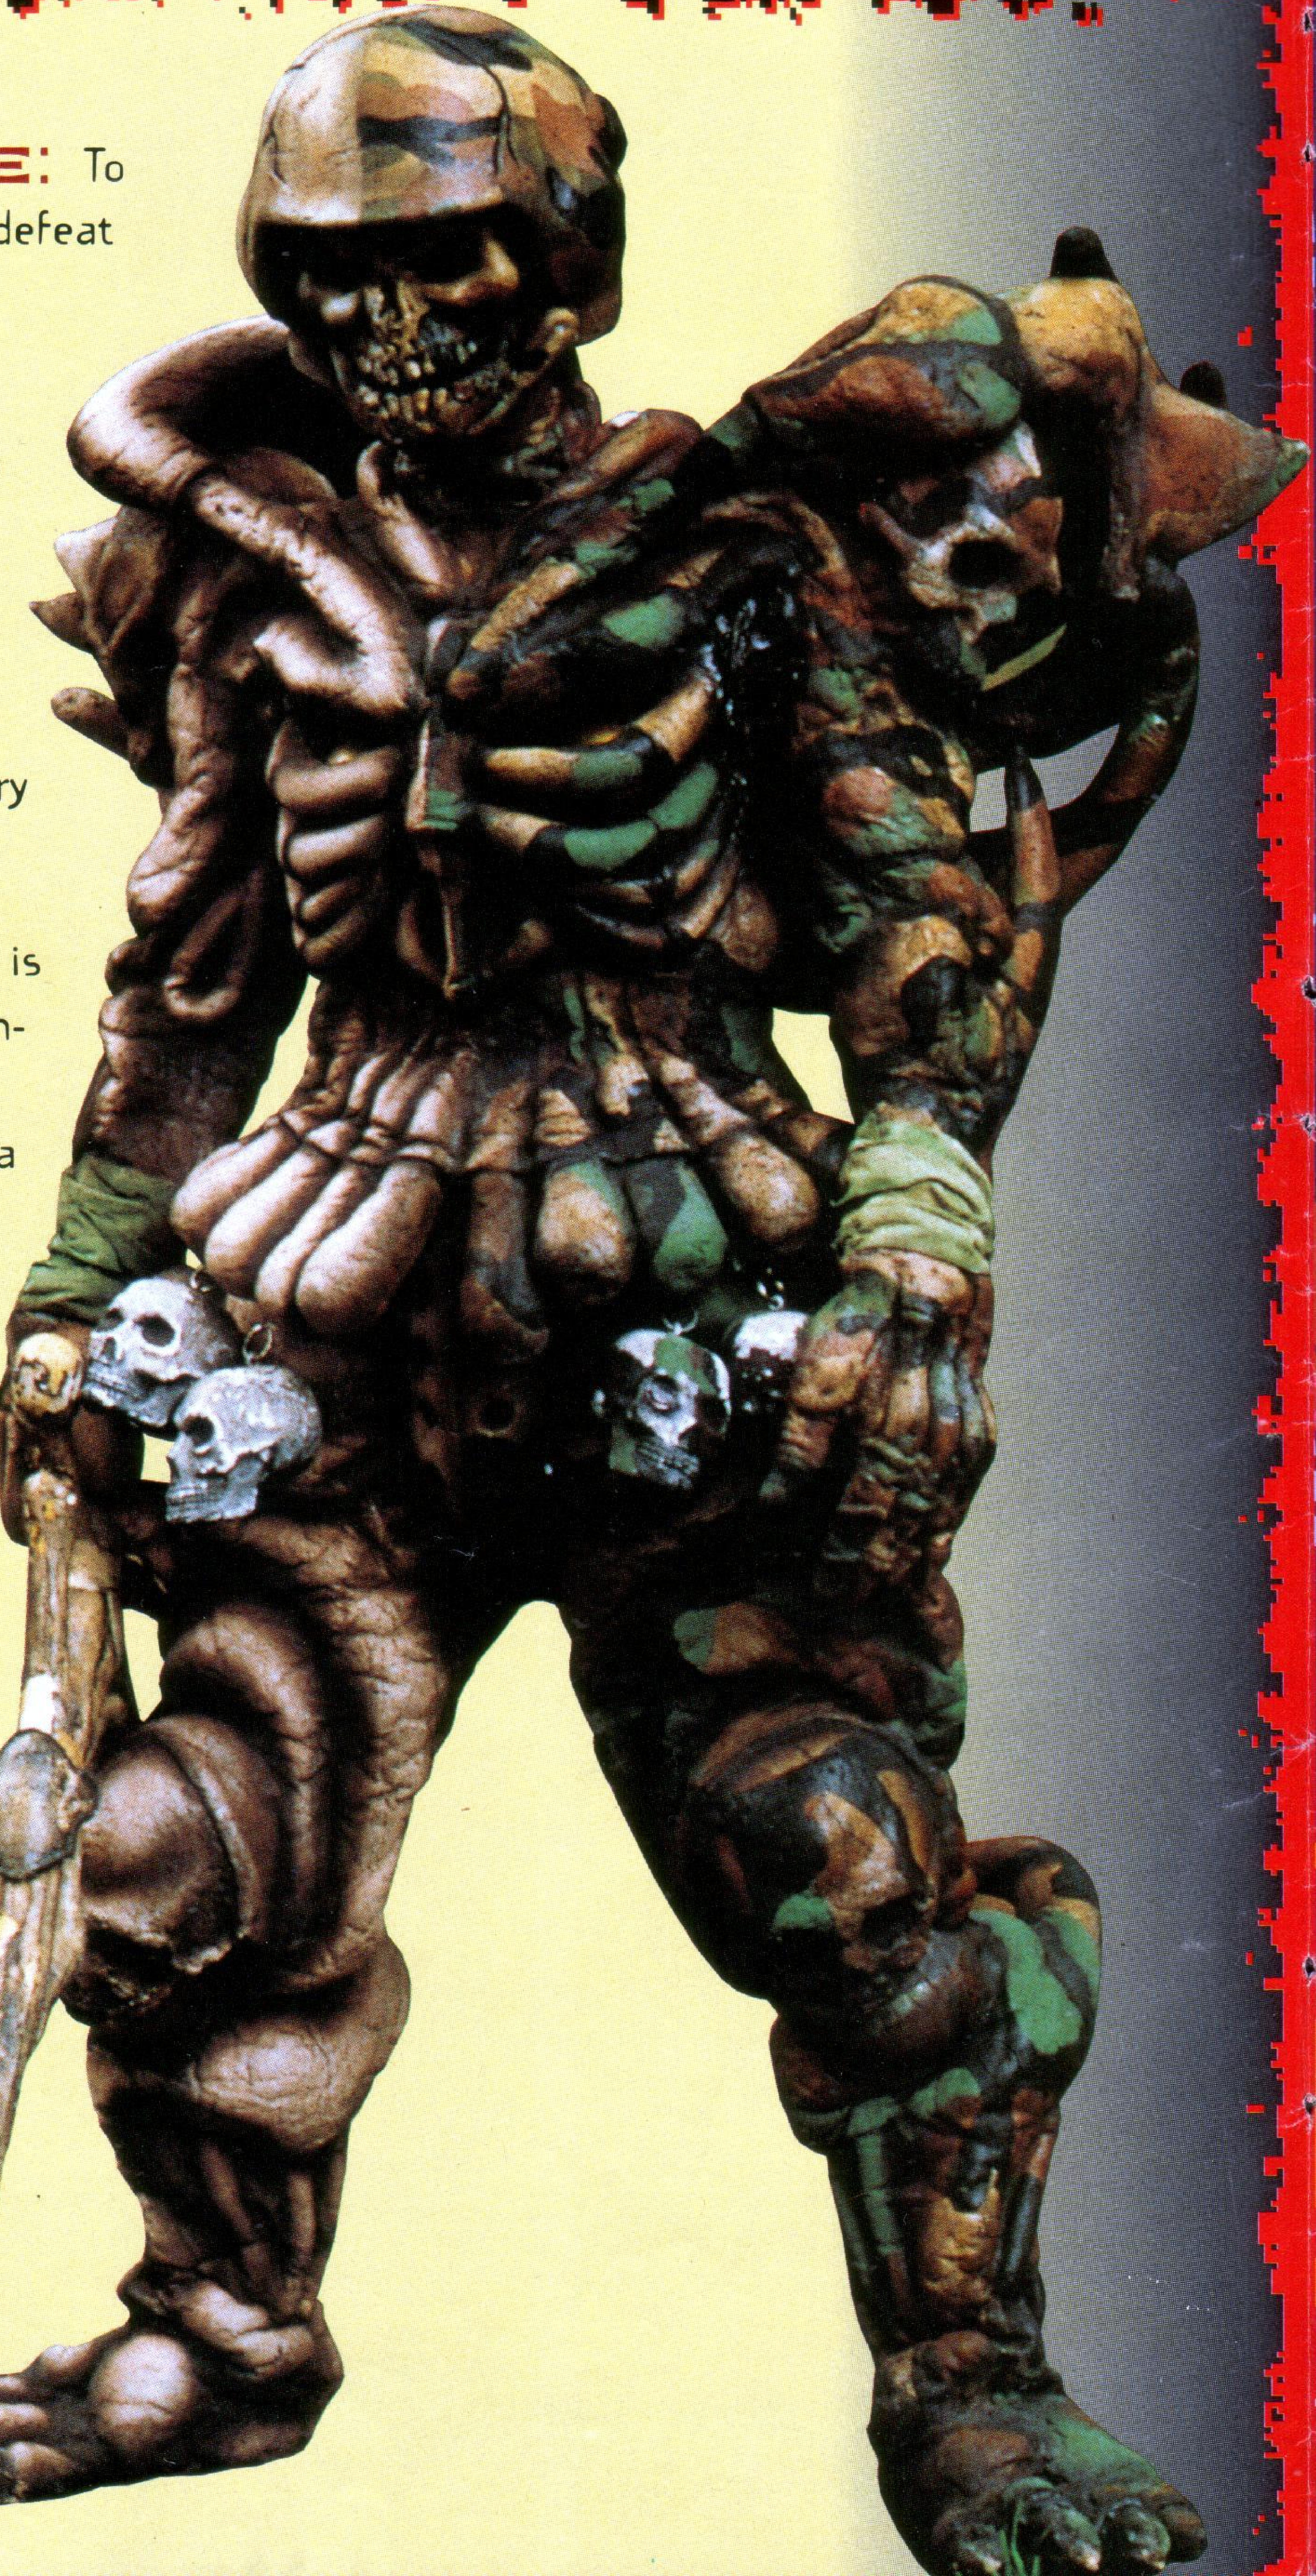
RITO REVOLTO



PURPOSE IN LIFE: To help Rita Repulsa and Lord Zedd defeat the Power Rangers.

PERSONALITY: Rito Revolto may look like a scary skeleton, but his lack of wits makes him no threat to the Power Rangers. Try as he may to be a clever soldier, Rito is dumb as a doorknob and never very successful in battle.

BACKGROUND: Rito is the dumb and pesky younger brother of Rita Repulsa. To win Rita's favor, he gave her and Lord Zedd a wedding present: the eggs from which the Tenga Warrior birds were hatched. (Thanks a lot, Rito!) Rita and Zedd were so happy to have the Tenga Warriors that they let Rito stay with them. Adding Rito to the crowd on the moon has not made Goldar happy. He's jealous of the attention Rito gets from his sister.

POWERS: Brute strength and determination. Rito is all brawn and no brain.

WEAPONS: Rito's main weapon is a laser sword. Besides that, he smells bad—which scares people off!

Power Profile

The Masked Rider

X-RAY VISION

REAL NAME: Dex

HOME PLANET: The faraway Edenoi.

HOW HE GOT TO EARTH: After conquering Edenoi, the evil count Dregon set his sights on planet Earth. Dex's grandfather, King Lexian, sent the teenager here to stop Dregon in his tracks.

HIS HOME ON EARTH: The all-American Stewart family unintentionally became Dex's host. After Dex landed in the Stewarts' backyard one quiet night, they soon realized that living with a super-cool, alien teenager would change their lives forever!

POWERS: Before sending Dex to Earth, King Lexian gave his grandson special powers that transformed him into the Masked Rider. These powers include x-ray vision, super-strength, and high intelligence, thanks to a half-computer brain. He also has a talking motorcycle and car.

PET: Dex's pet is a super-intelligent, sugar-loving fur ball named Ferbus.

GOAL: To defeat Dregon on Earth and return to Edenoi to restore order there.

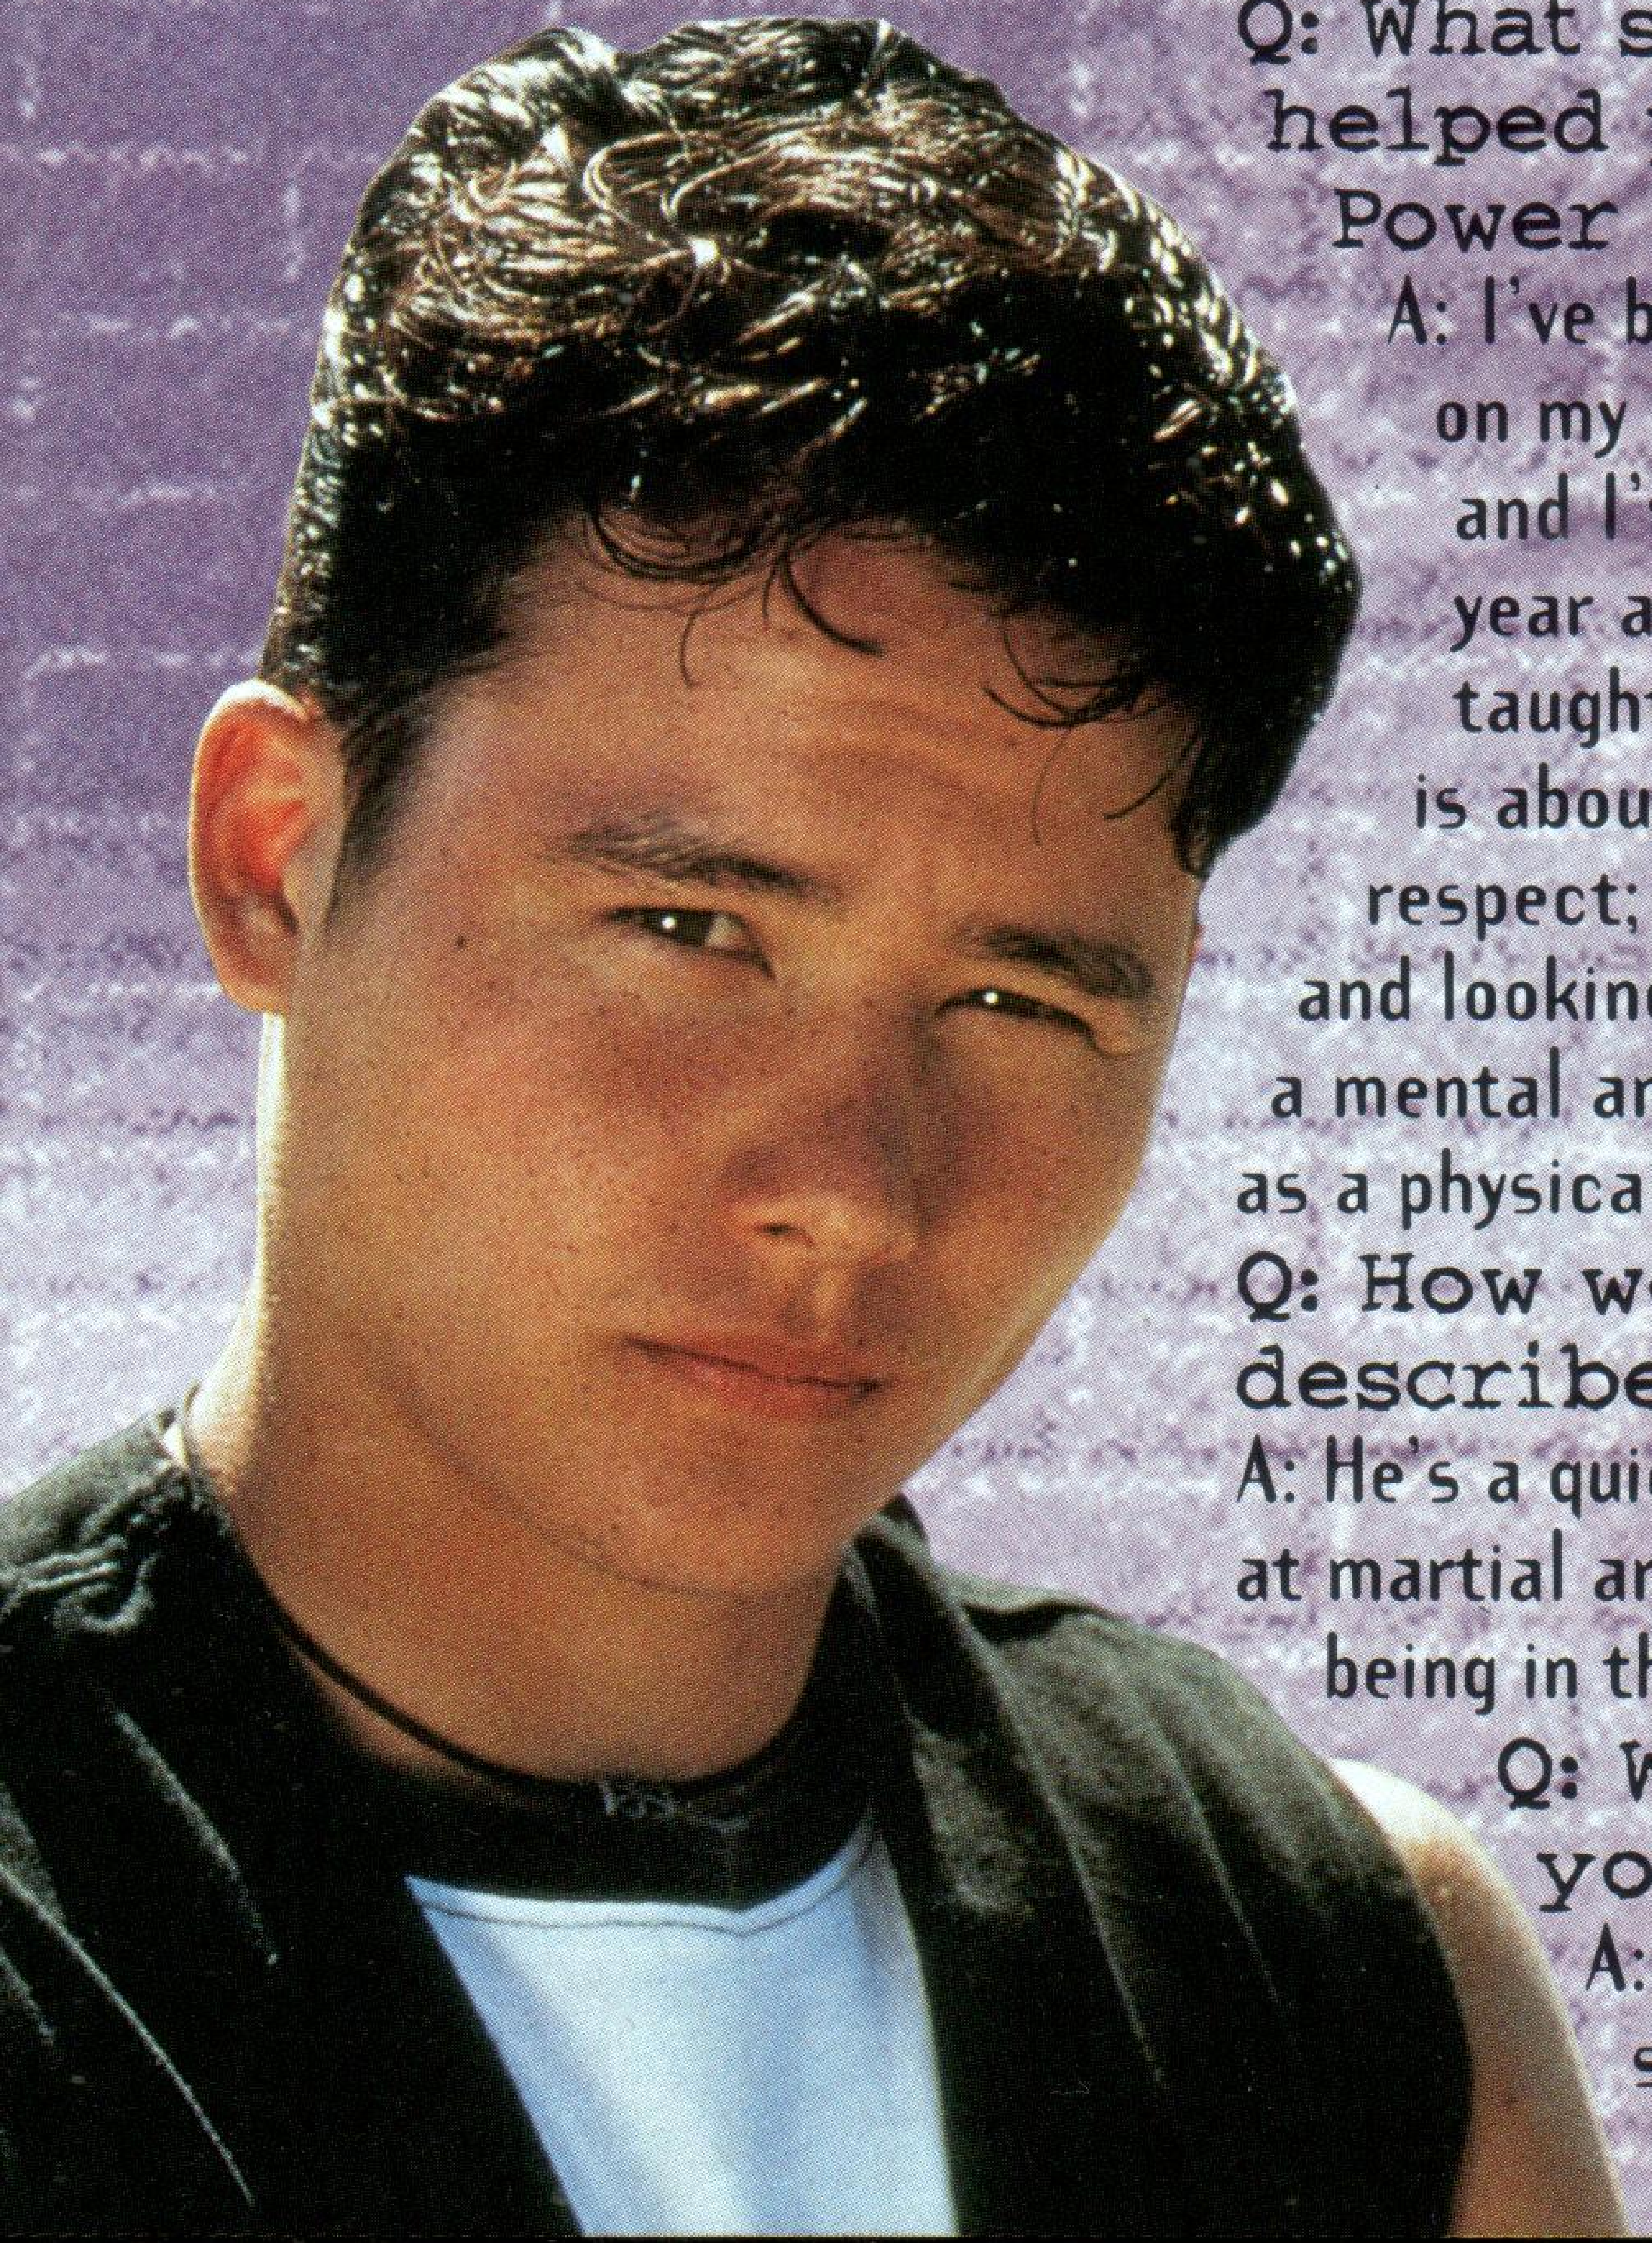
Johnny Yong Bosch (Adam, the Black Ranger)



Q: What special skills helped you become a Power Ranger?

A: I've been doing martial arts on my own since I was little, and I've studied kung fu for a year and a half. My instructor taught me that martial arts is about discipline and respect; it's not about going out and looking for fights. Kung fu is a mental and spiritual art, as well as a physical one.

Q: How would you describe Adam?

A: He's a quiet guy who's very skilled at martial arts but doesn't mind being in the background.

Q: Which monster is your favorite?

A: Lord Zedd, because he's so cool.

Q: What's your favorite food?

A: I love tacos and burritos. Pizza's pretty good, too!

Q: What was your favorite subject in school?

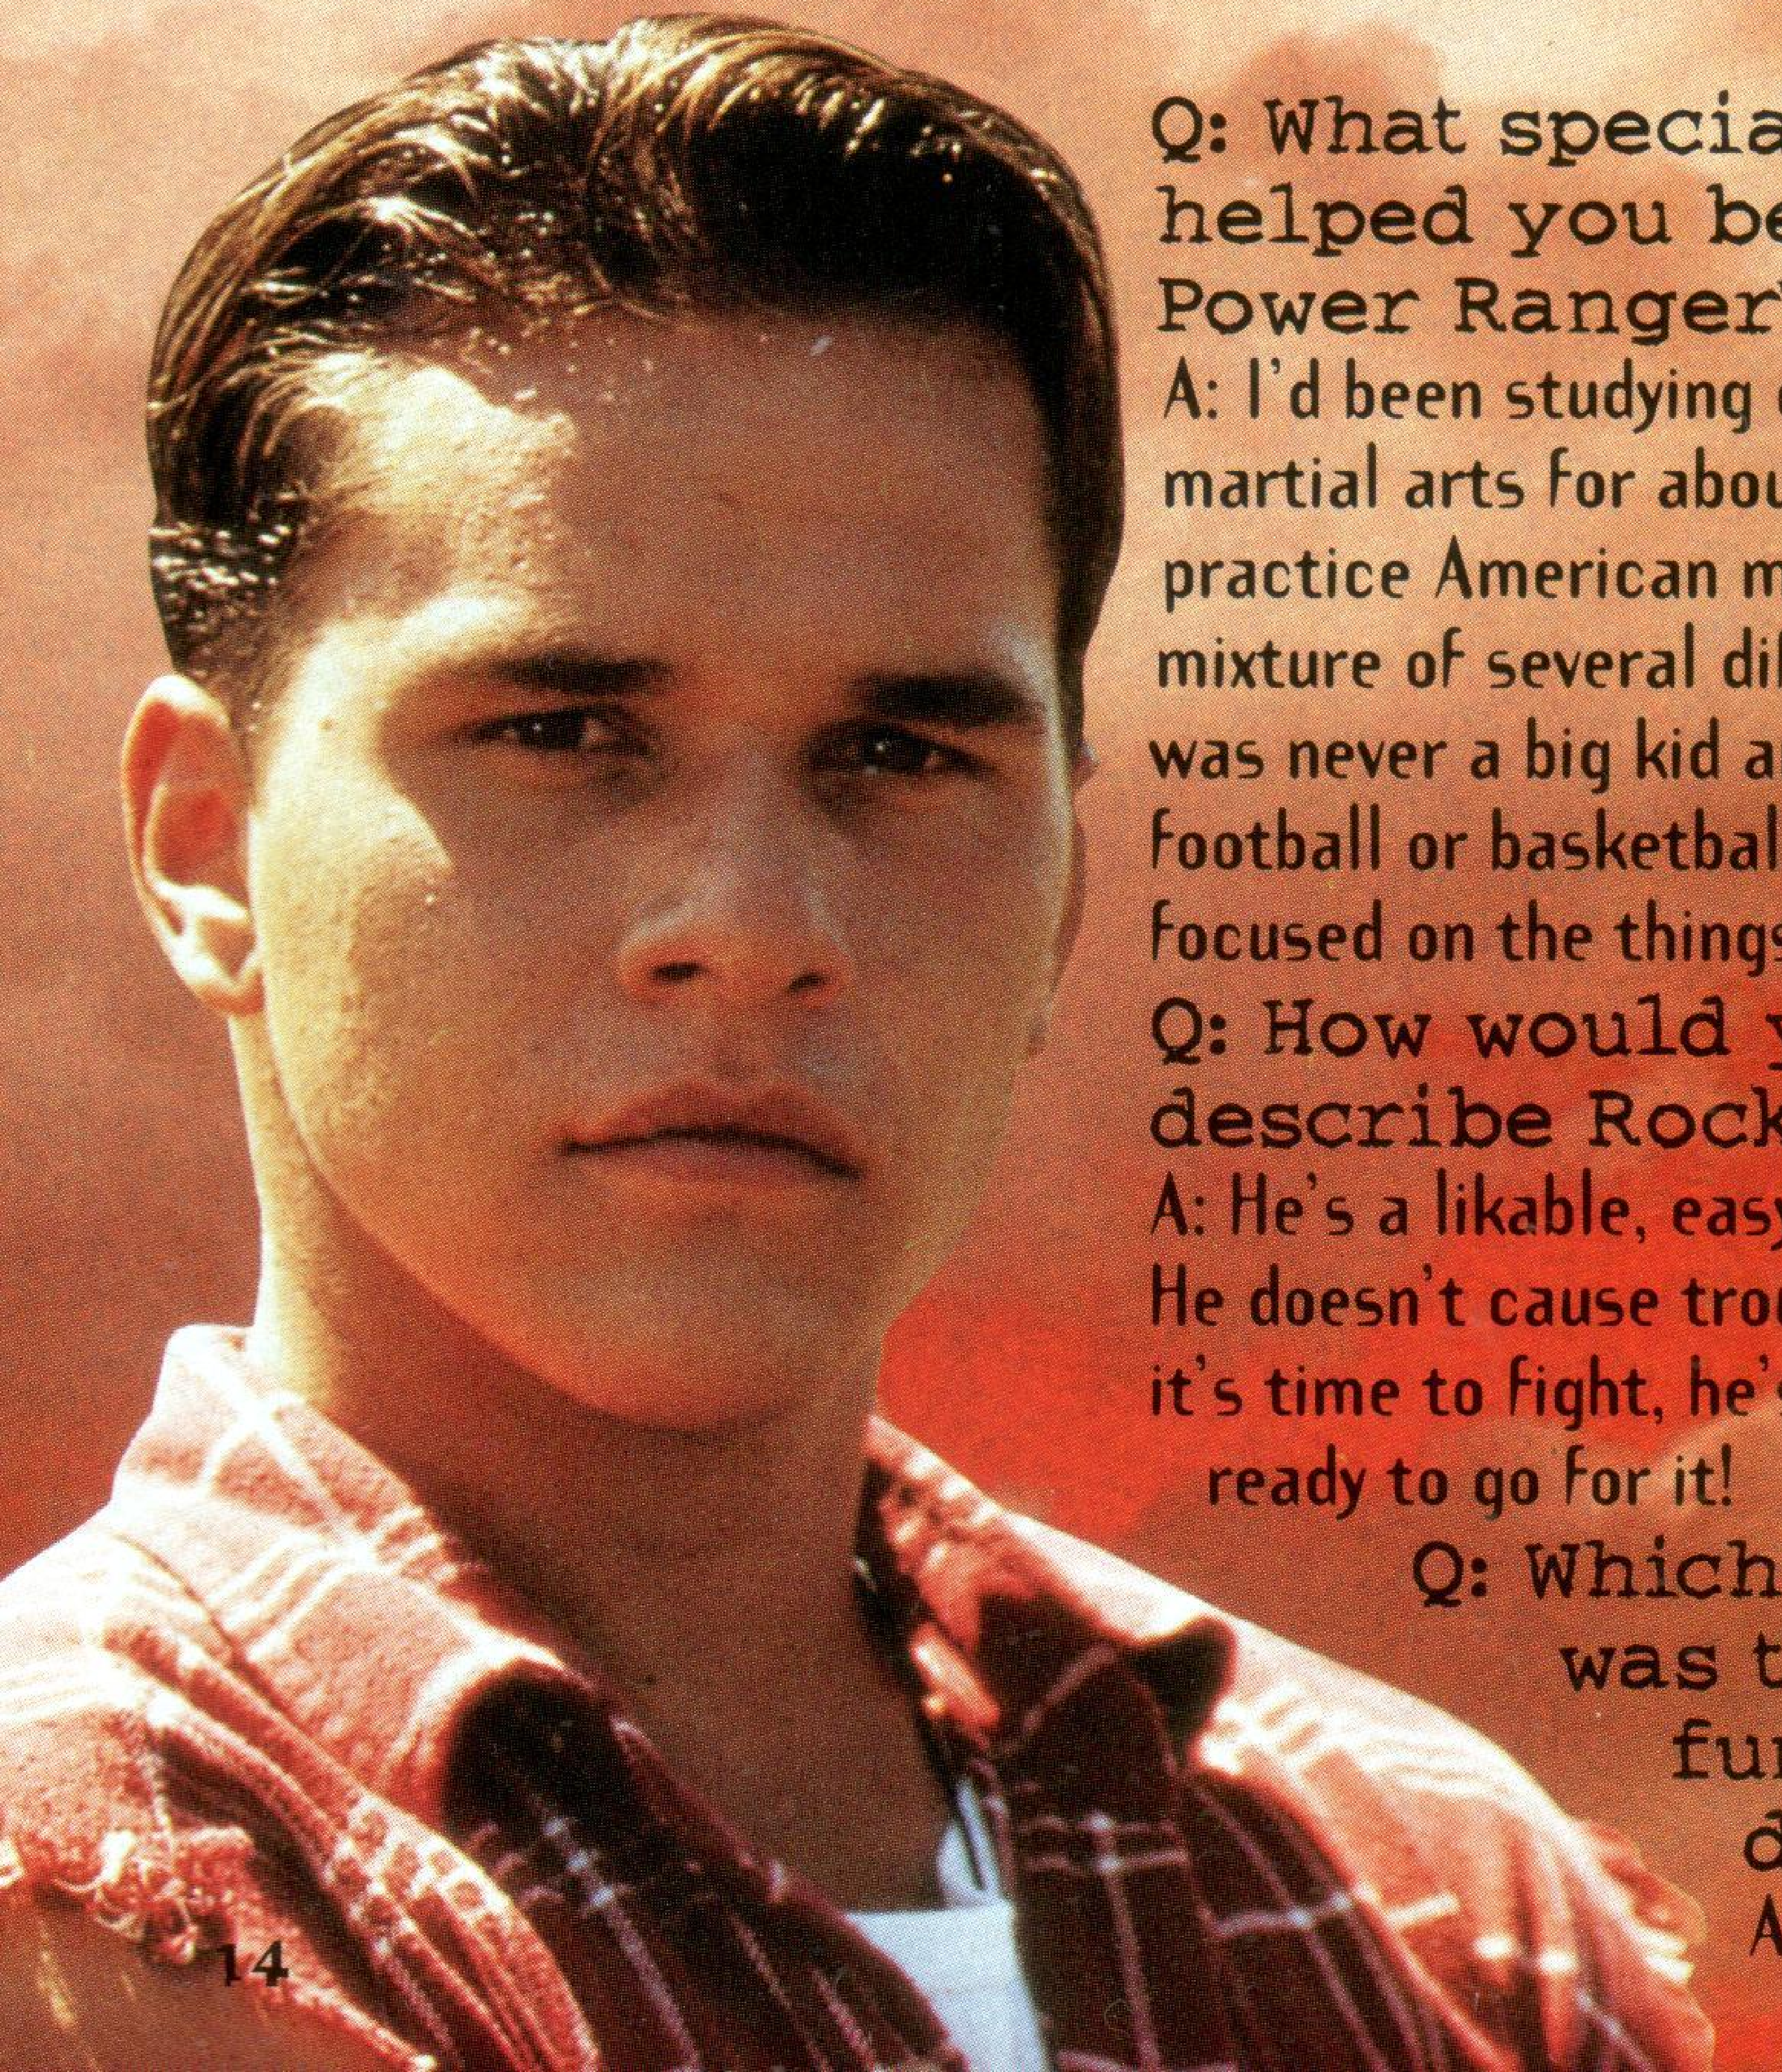
A: Art and English. I still like to draw when I have time, and I write down ideas for martial arts routines.

Q: Did you have any favorite heroes when you were growing up?

A: I really liked Spider-Man and Wolverine.

What Word

Steve Cardenas (Rocky, the Red Ranger)



Q: What special skills helped you become a Power Ranger?

A: I'd been studying gymnastics and martial arts for about nine years. I practice American martial arts, a mixture of several different styles. I was never a big kid and I couldn't play football or basketball, so I became focused on the things I could do.

Q: How would you describe Rocky?

A: He's a likable, easygoing character. He doesn't cause trouble, but when it's time to fight, he's eager and ready to go for it!

Q: Which monster was the most fun to defeat?

A: The Pachinko Machine monster was one of my favorites. He turned everybody into giant silver pachinko balls, like in a pinball machine.

Q: What's your favorite food?

A: I'm Hispanic, and I like Mexican food, but I also like Italian food—manicotti and lasagna and calzone.

Q: What was your favorite subject in school?

A: Art. I liked drawing people and still lifes in charcoals, pencils, and oils.

Q: What's your favorite kind of music?

A: Classic 1960s rock—the Beatles, the Who, the Rolling Stones, and the Doors.

Katherine Sutherland (Kat, the Pink Ranger)

Q: What special skills helped you become a Power Ranger?
A: I've been dancing for about 14 years and I've studied acting for five years. I also like to sing.

Q: How would you describe Kat?
A: She has all the good qualities every teenager should have—she's sweet, intelligent, independent, and she tries to help out and make people happy. I'm from Australia, and so is Kat!

Q: Which monster was the most fun to defeat?
A: Garbage Mouth, a monster created from a rubbish bin.

Q: What's your favorite sport?
A: Basketball. It's not as popular in Australia as it is here, but it's the only sport I really liked to play. I was always busy dancing.

Q: What's your favorite food?
A: I should probably say fruit, but ice cream is my favorite.

Answers to your questions from the newest Power Rangers, including the very new Pink Ranger, Kat!

Karan Ashley (Aisha, the Yellow Ranger)

Q: What special skills helped you become a Power Ranger?
A: I used to be in a singing group called Krush, and we did a lot of hip-hop dancing. I hadn't studied martial arts, but my dancing is really energetic, with lots of kicks and stretches.

Q: How would you describe Aisha?
A: She is very bubbly and happy. She can find something good in every situation. And she loves to talk!

Q: Which monster was the hardest to fight?
A: Definitely Ivan Ooze. He took our powers away!

Q: What's your favorite food?
A: Macaroni and cheese. I had some this morning for breakfast.

Q: What is your favorite sport?
A: I love to watch football—I'm a big Dallas Cowboys fan—and I like to play soccer.

Q: What was your favorite subject in school?
A: English. I love the fact that when you pick up a book, you can go to another country. I also love to be totally creative and make up stories.

Q: Do you play a musical instrument?
A: I used to play the clarinet when I was in elementary school.

Adam – the cool Black Ranger, tough and talented at kung fu and putty busting.

Aisha – your friend the feisty, fun, and hip Yellow Ranger.

Alpha 5 – Ai-yi-yi! Zordon's right-hand man . . . er, robot! Faithful friend to the Power Rangers and keeper of the Command Center. Alpha's a very good worrier—he's the coolest, if not the calmest!

Amy – the editor of your favorite magazine, Mighty Morphin Power Rangers Magazine.

Angel Grove – the fun place where the Power Rangers live. Not Lord Zedd and Rita Repulsa's favorite vacation spot!

Ape – Rocky, the Red Ranger, draws on this nimble animal for his Ninja power.

Adam

Aisha

Billy – the super-smart, scientifically sweet Blue Ranger—who else? If anyone can outsmart Lord Zedd, it's this guy.

Billy

Bulk – the "bulkier" of Angel Grove's dim-witted duo. Along with Skull, Bulk is a new member of the Angel Grove Junior Volunteer Police Force. It's a good way to meet girls, they figure!

Chunky Chicken – one foul fowl.

Commander Crayfish – one fishy fool! Puts real bite into the phrase "surf and turf."

Crane – the graceful and swift bird from which the Pink Ranger draws her Ninja power.

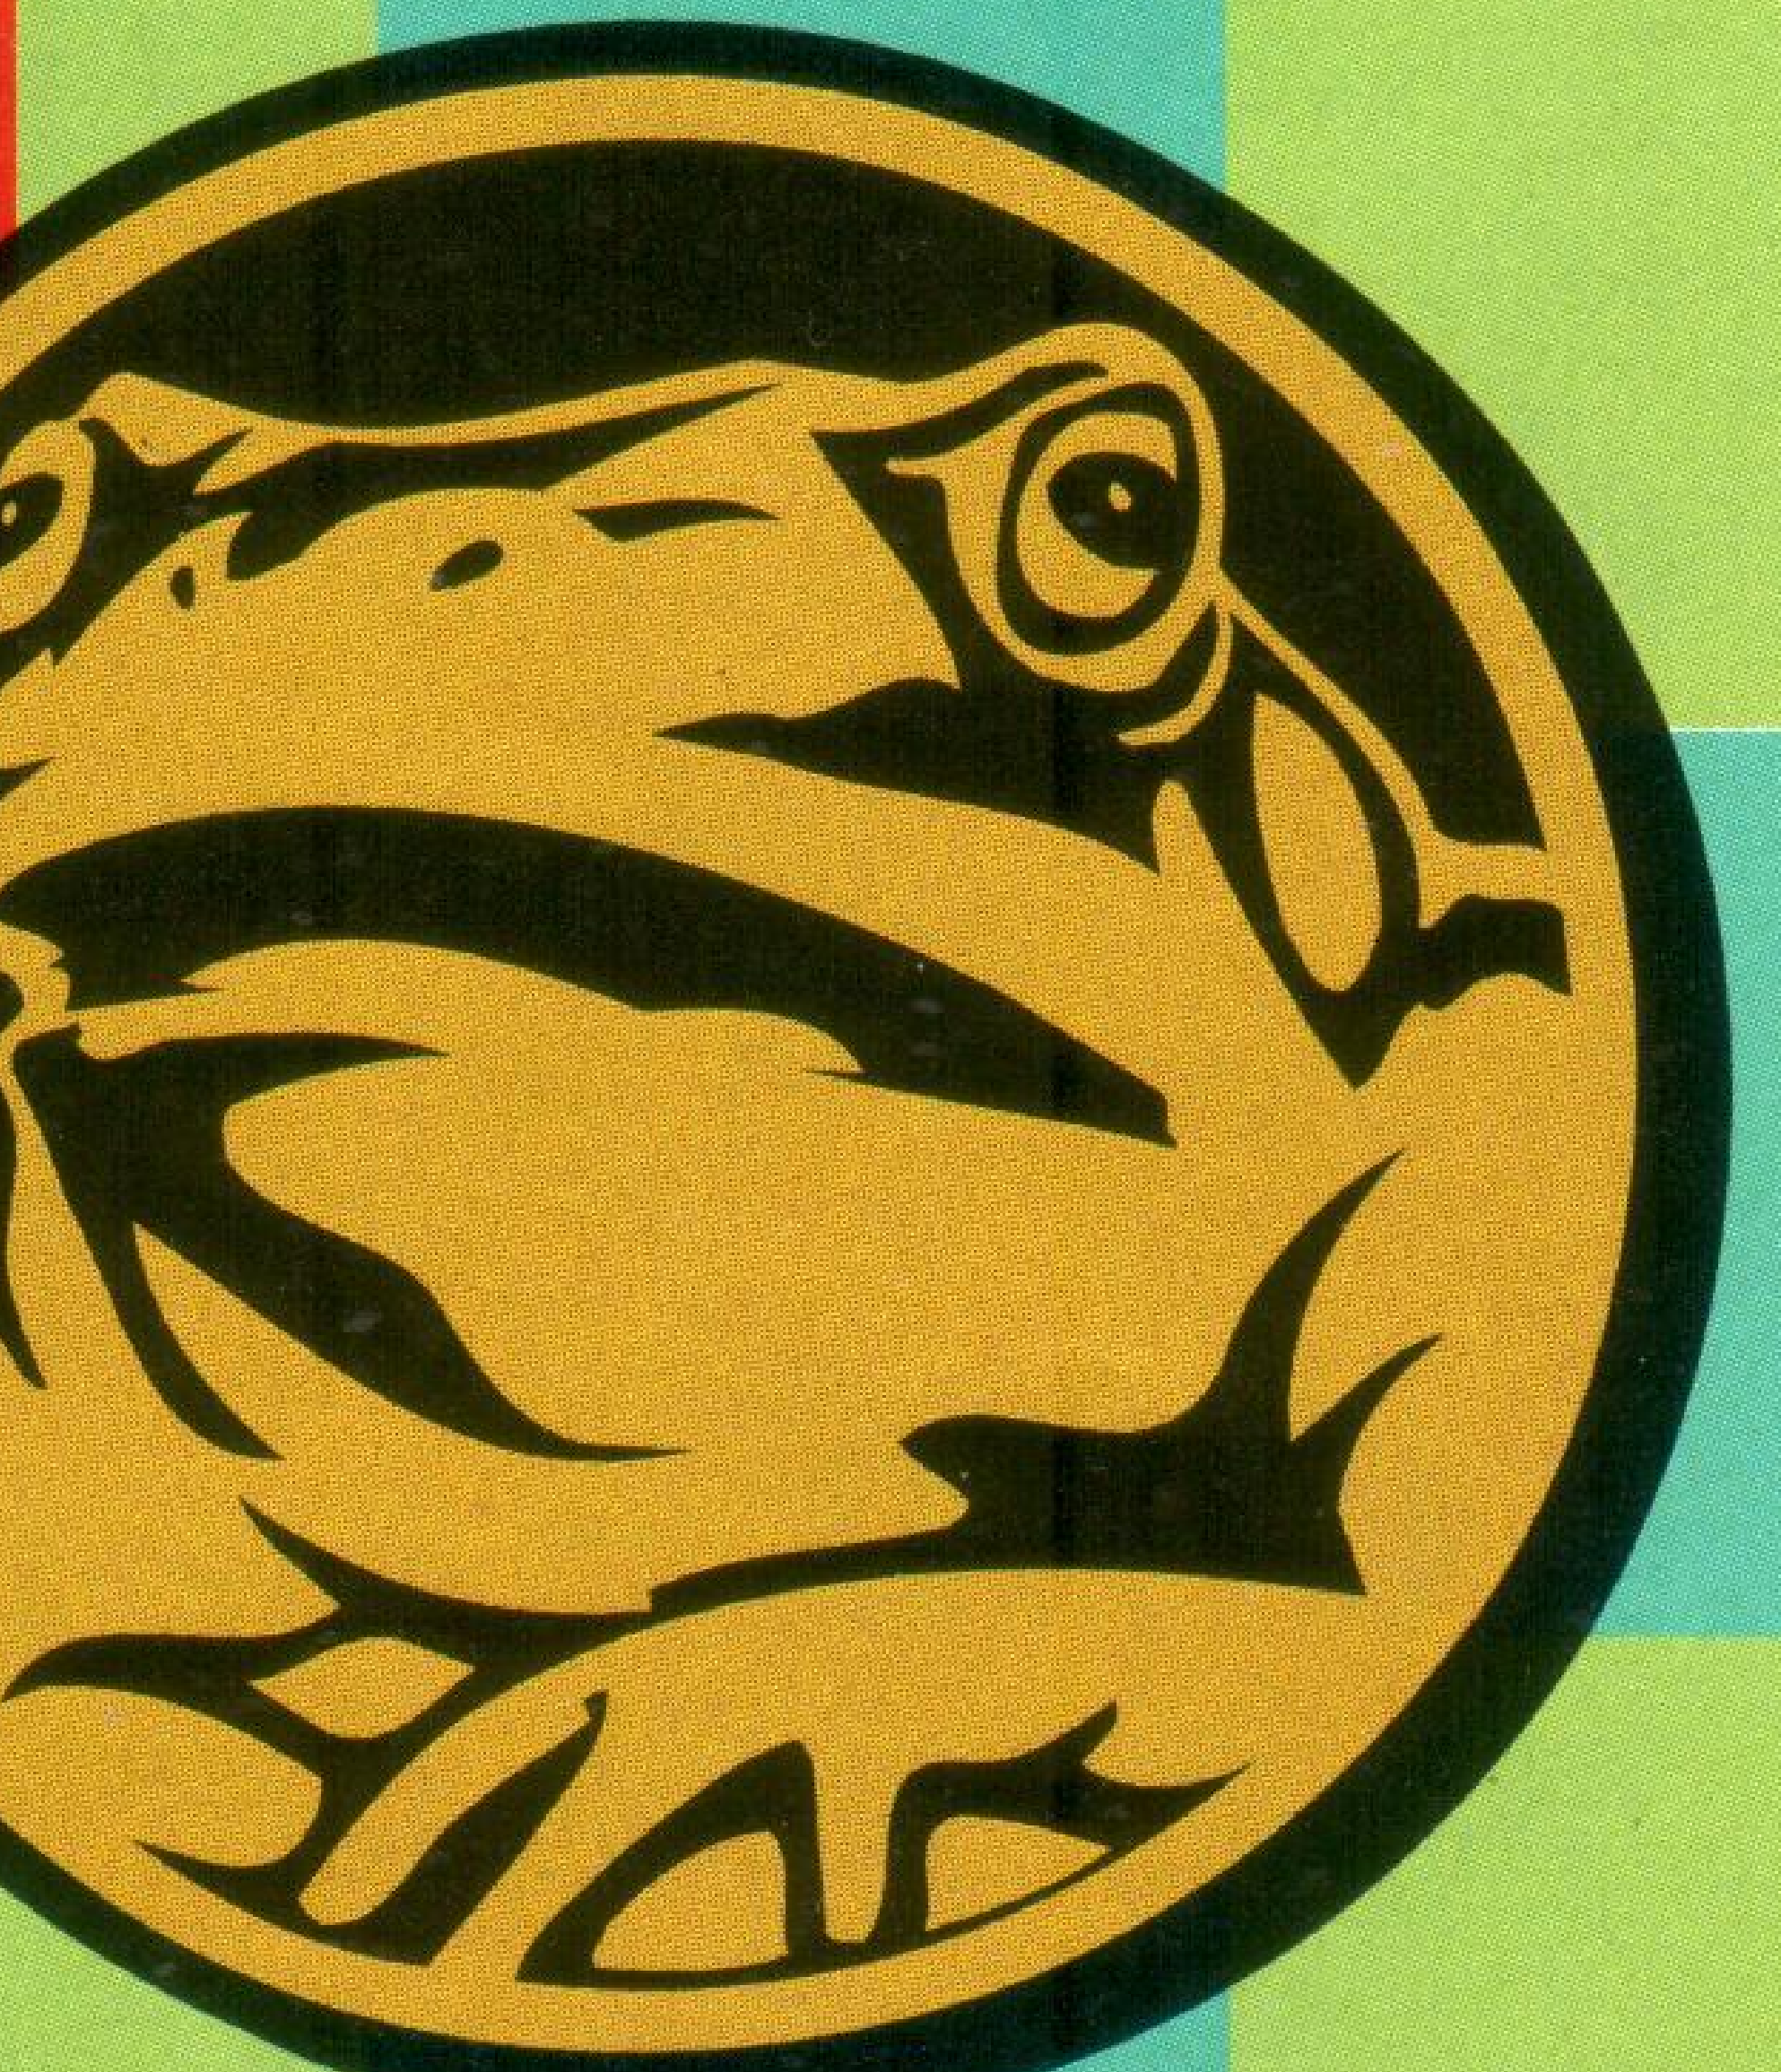
Finster

Frog – croak! The amphibian from which Adam, the Black Ranger, draws his lightning quick Ninja skills.



Goldar – loud, mean, evil, nasty and, well, not a nice guy. Stay away!

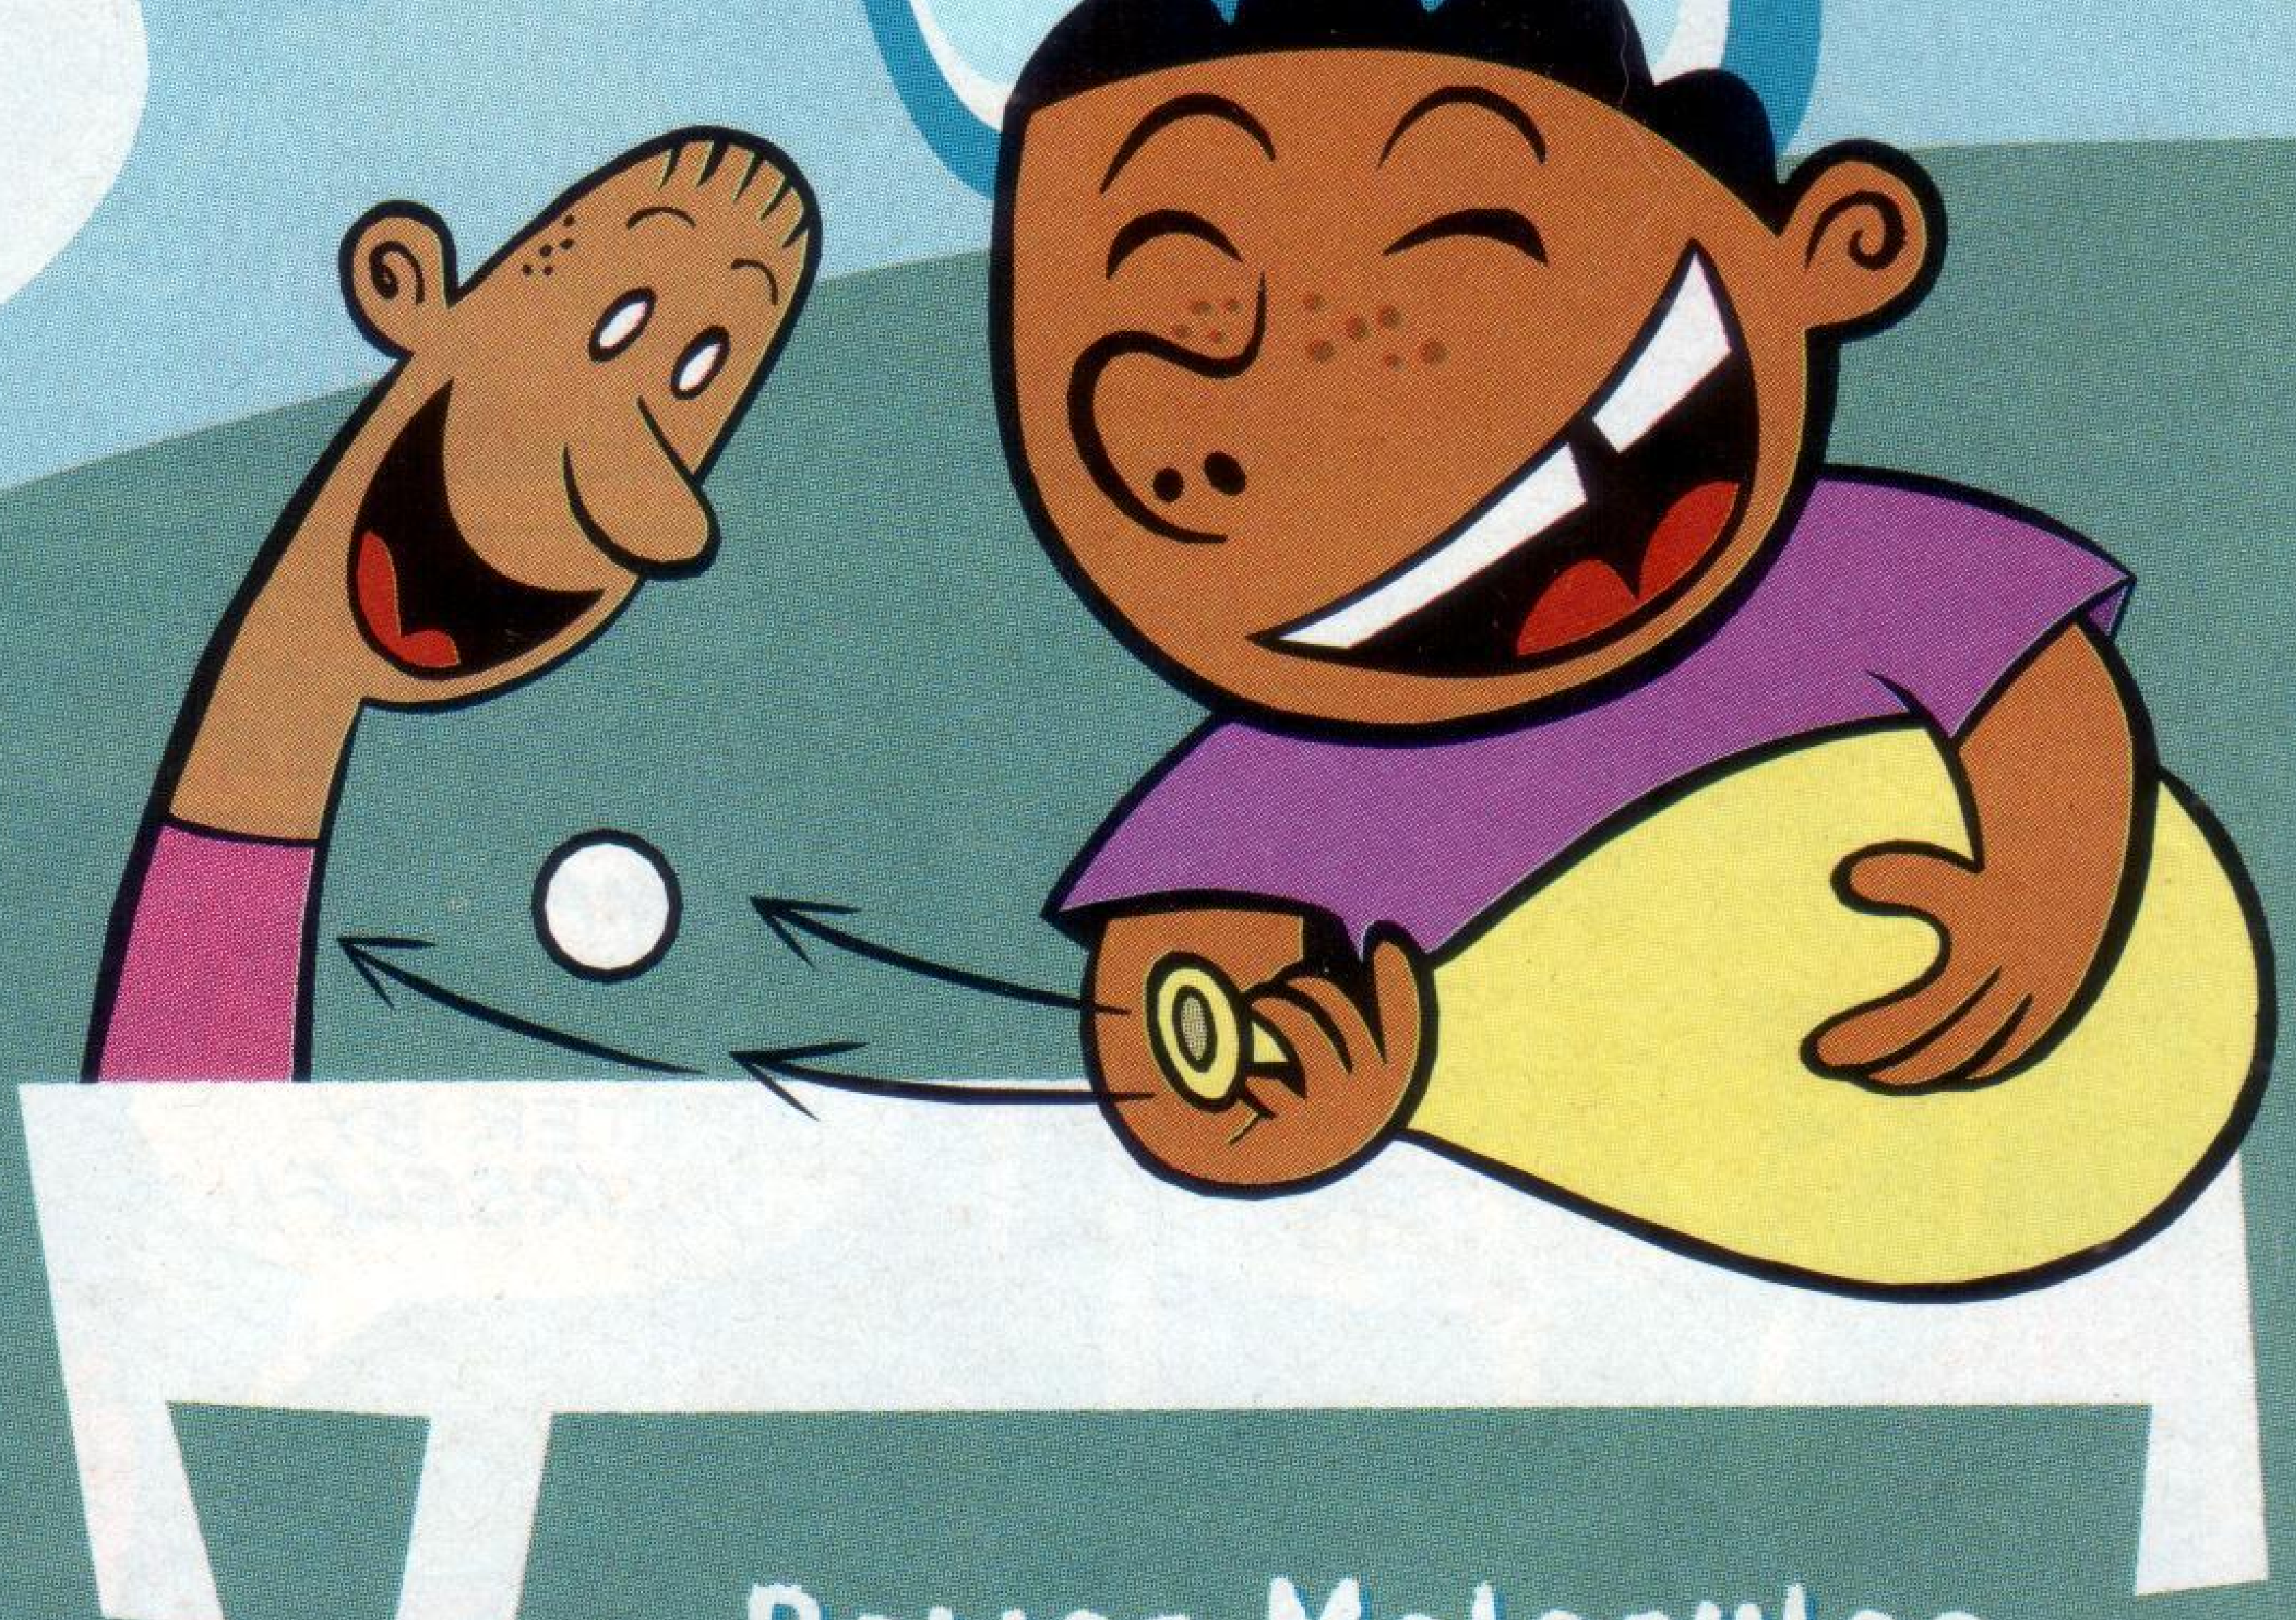
HOT AIR!

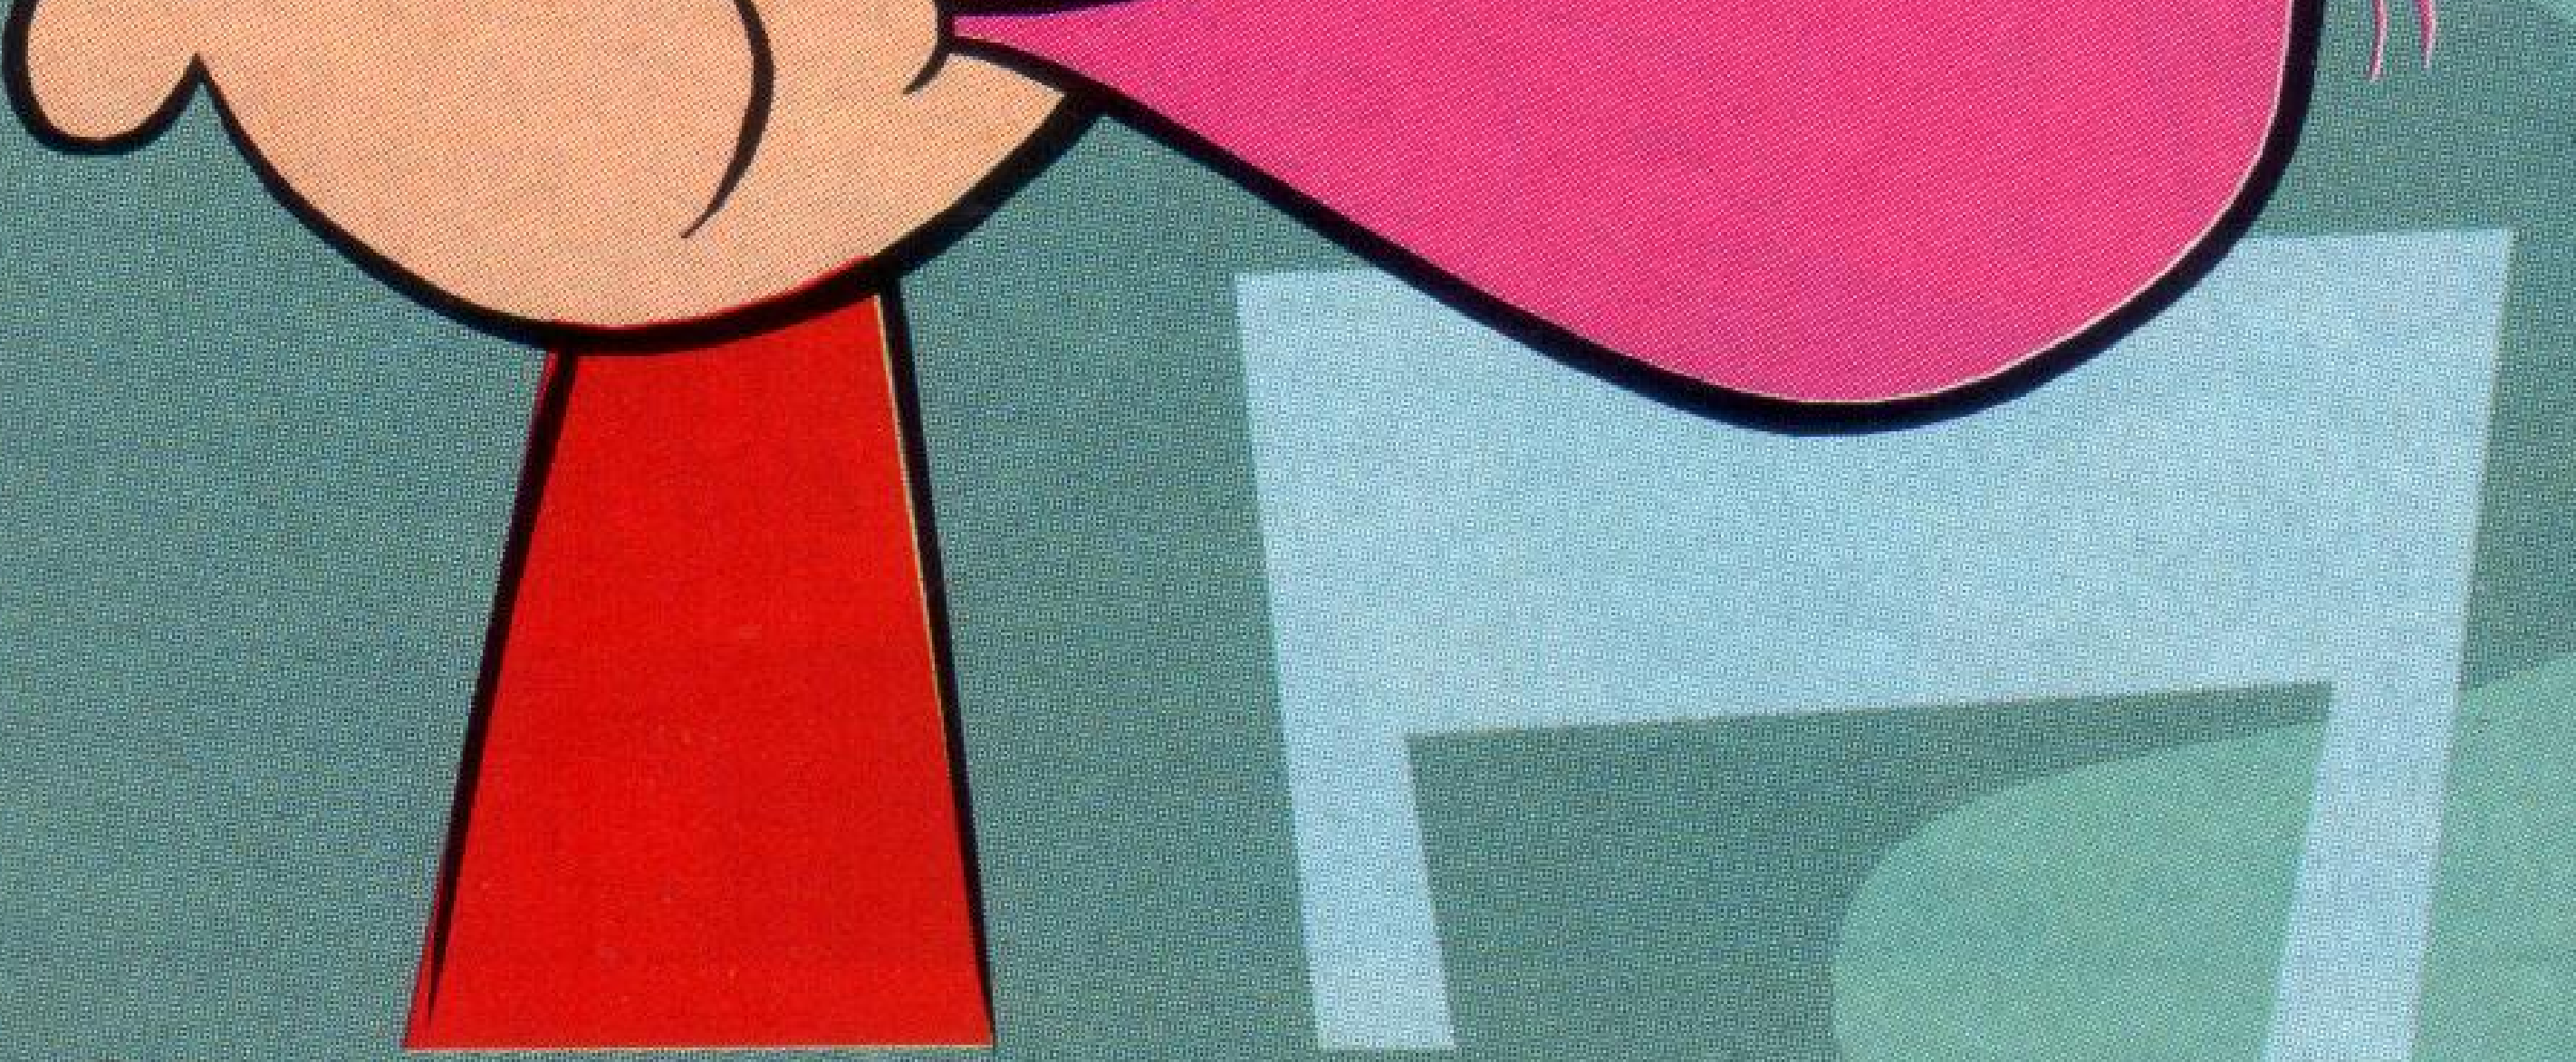
-by J.J.Gardner



1. Super Power Muscle Balloon

Ever notice what happens when your bicycle tire loses air? The tire sags and the bike wobbles. But if you pump it up, air pressure holds up the bike! It also holds up anyone sitting on it—no matter what their weight.

To prove it, try this experiment. I call it "The Super Power Muscle Balloon Test." Take an empty balloon and place it on the edge of a table. Let the balloon's spout hang over the edge. Place one or two school books on top of the balloon—but not over the spout. Next, take a deep breath and begin filling the balloon with air. The air pressure inside the balloon will become so strong it will lift your books off the table! Way to go!



2. Power Molecules Balloon

Here's a way to give a balloon enough power to fight off Lord Zedd. I call it "The Power Molecules Balloon Test."

Fill a balloon with air, then pinch the spout closed with your fingers. Place a Ping-Pong ball on a table. Then put the spout of the balloon in front of the Ping-Pong ball. Ease up on the spout a bit and let some of the air out. The air molecules inside the balloon will shoot out and push the ball across the table! Now that's power!

Hey, do you know how to play Power Molecule Hockey? It's easy. Just give a friend another balloon and you can play an exciting game of hockey using air instead of sticks and Ping-Pong balls instead of pucks.

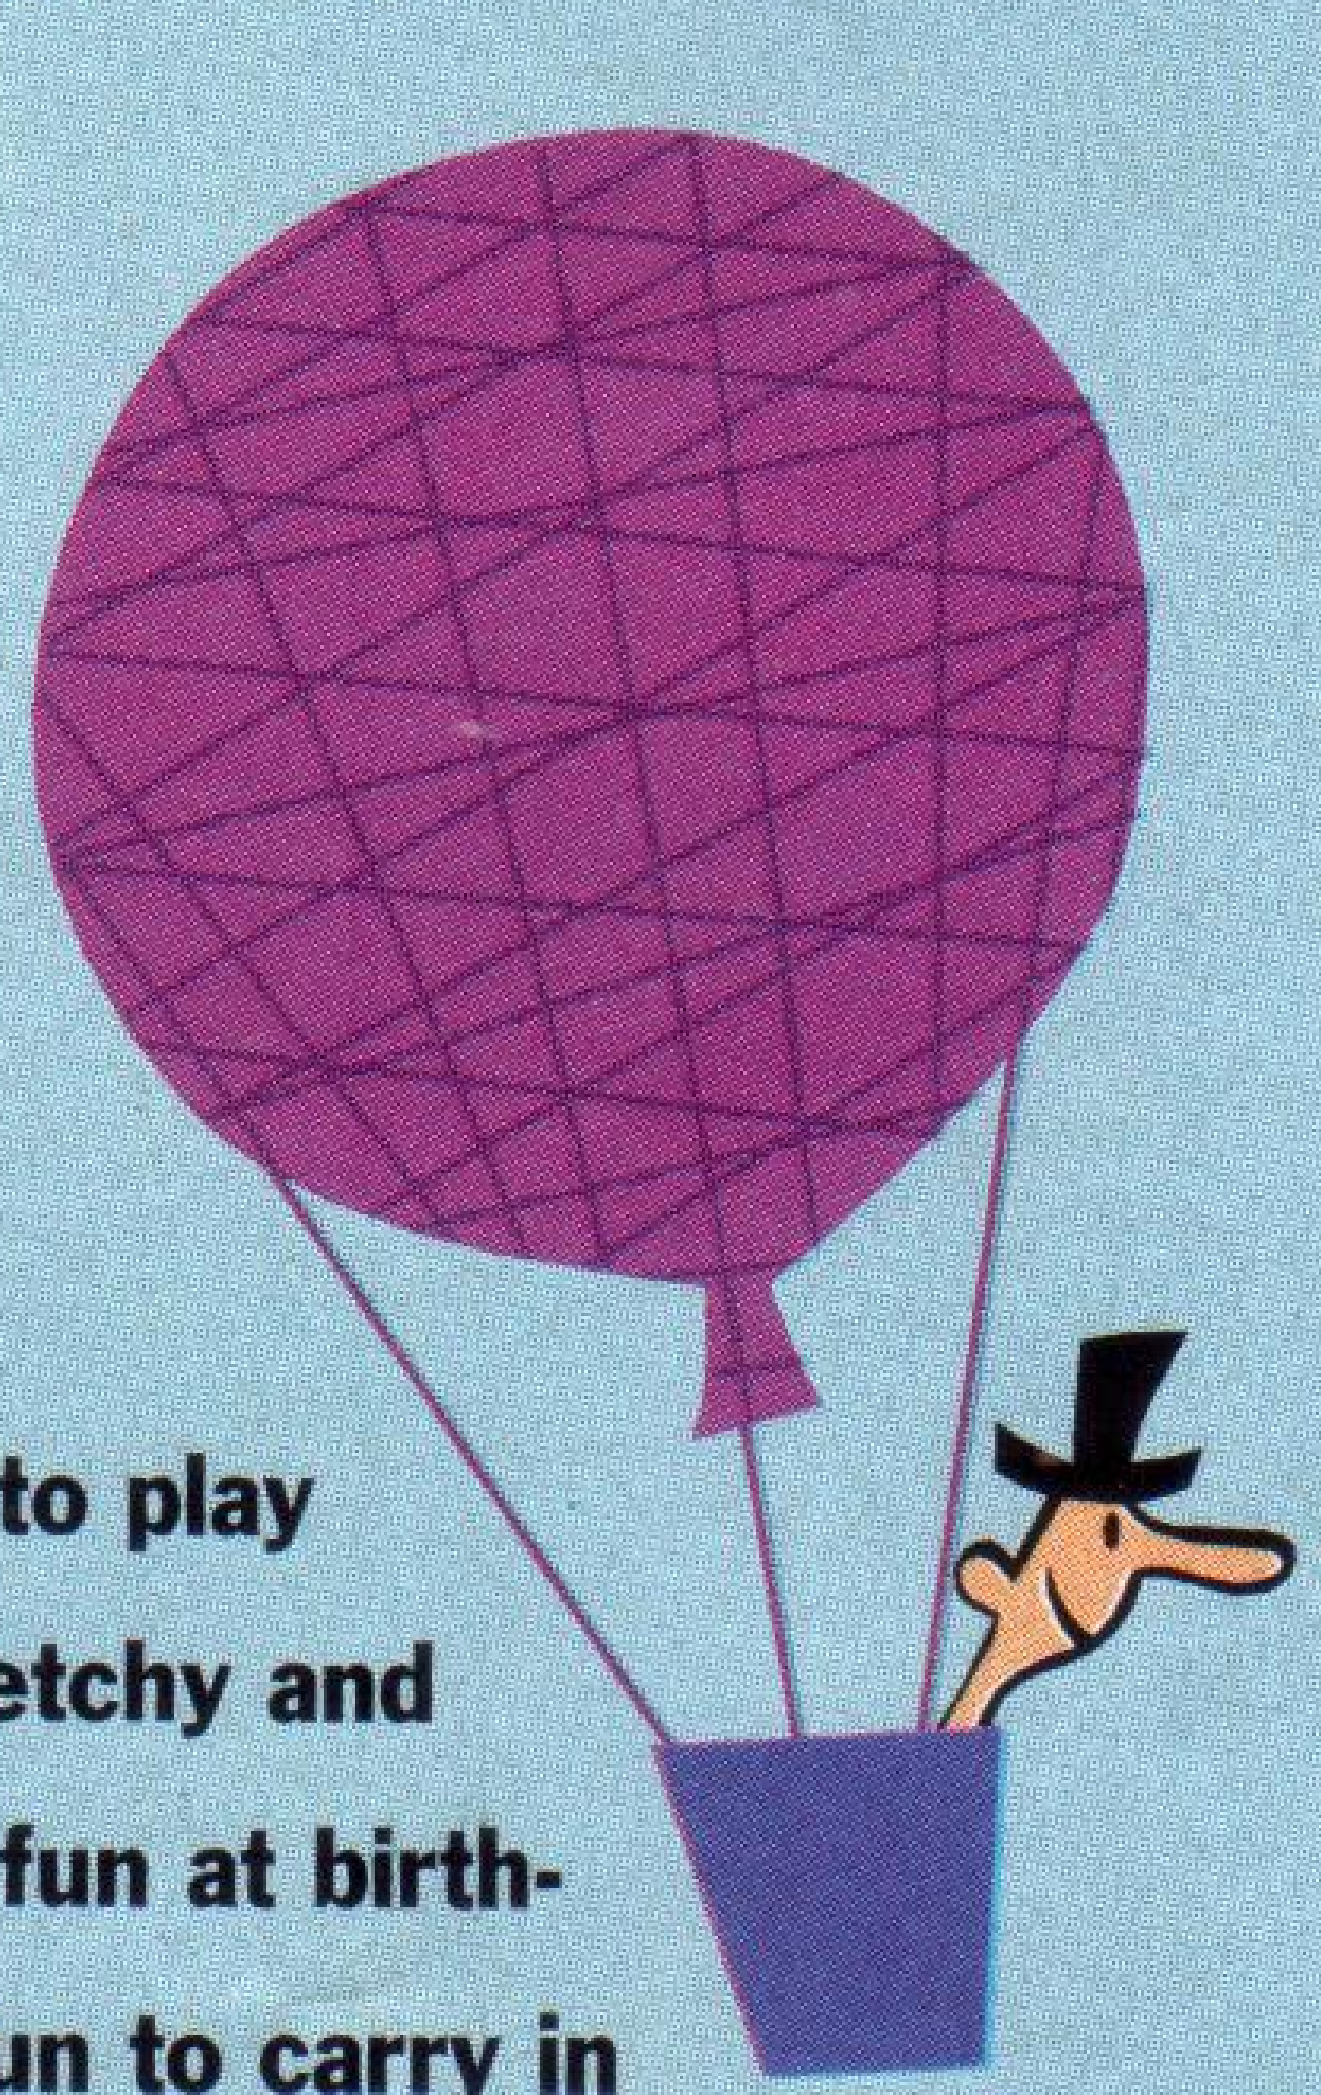
Illustration: DAVID SHELDON

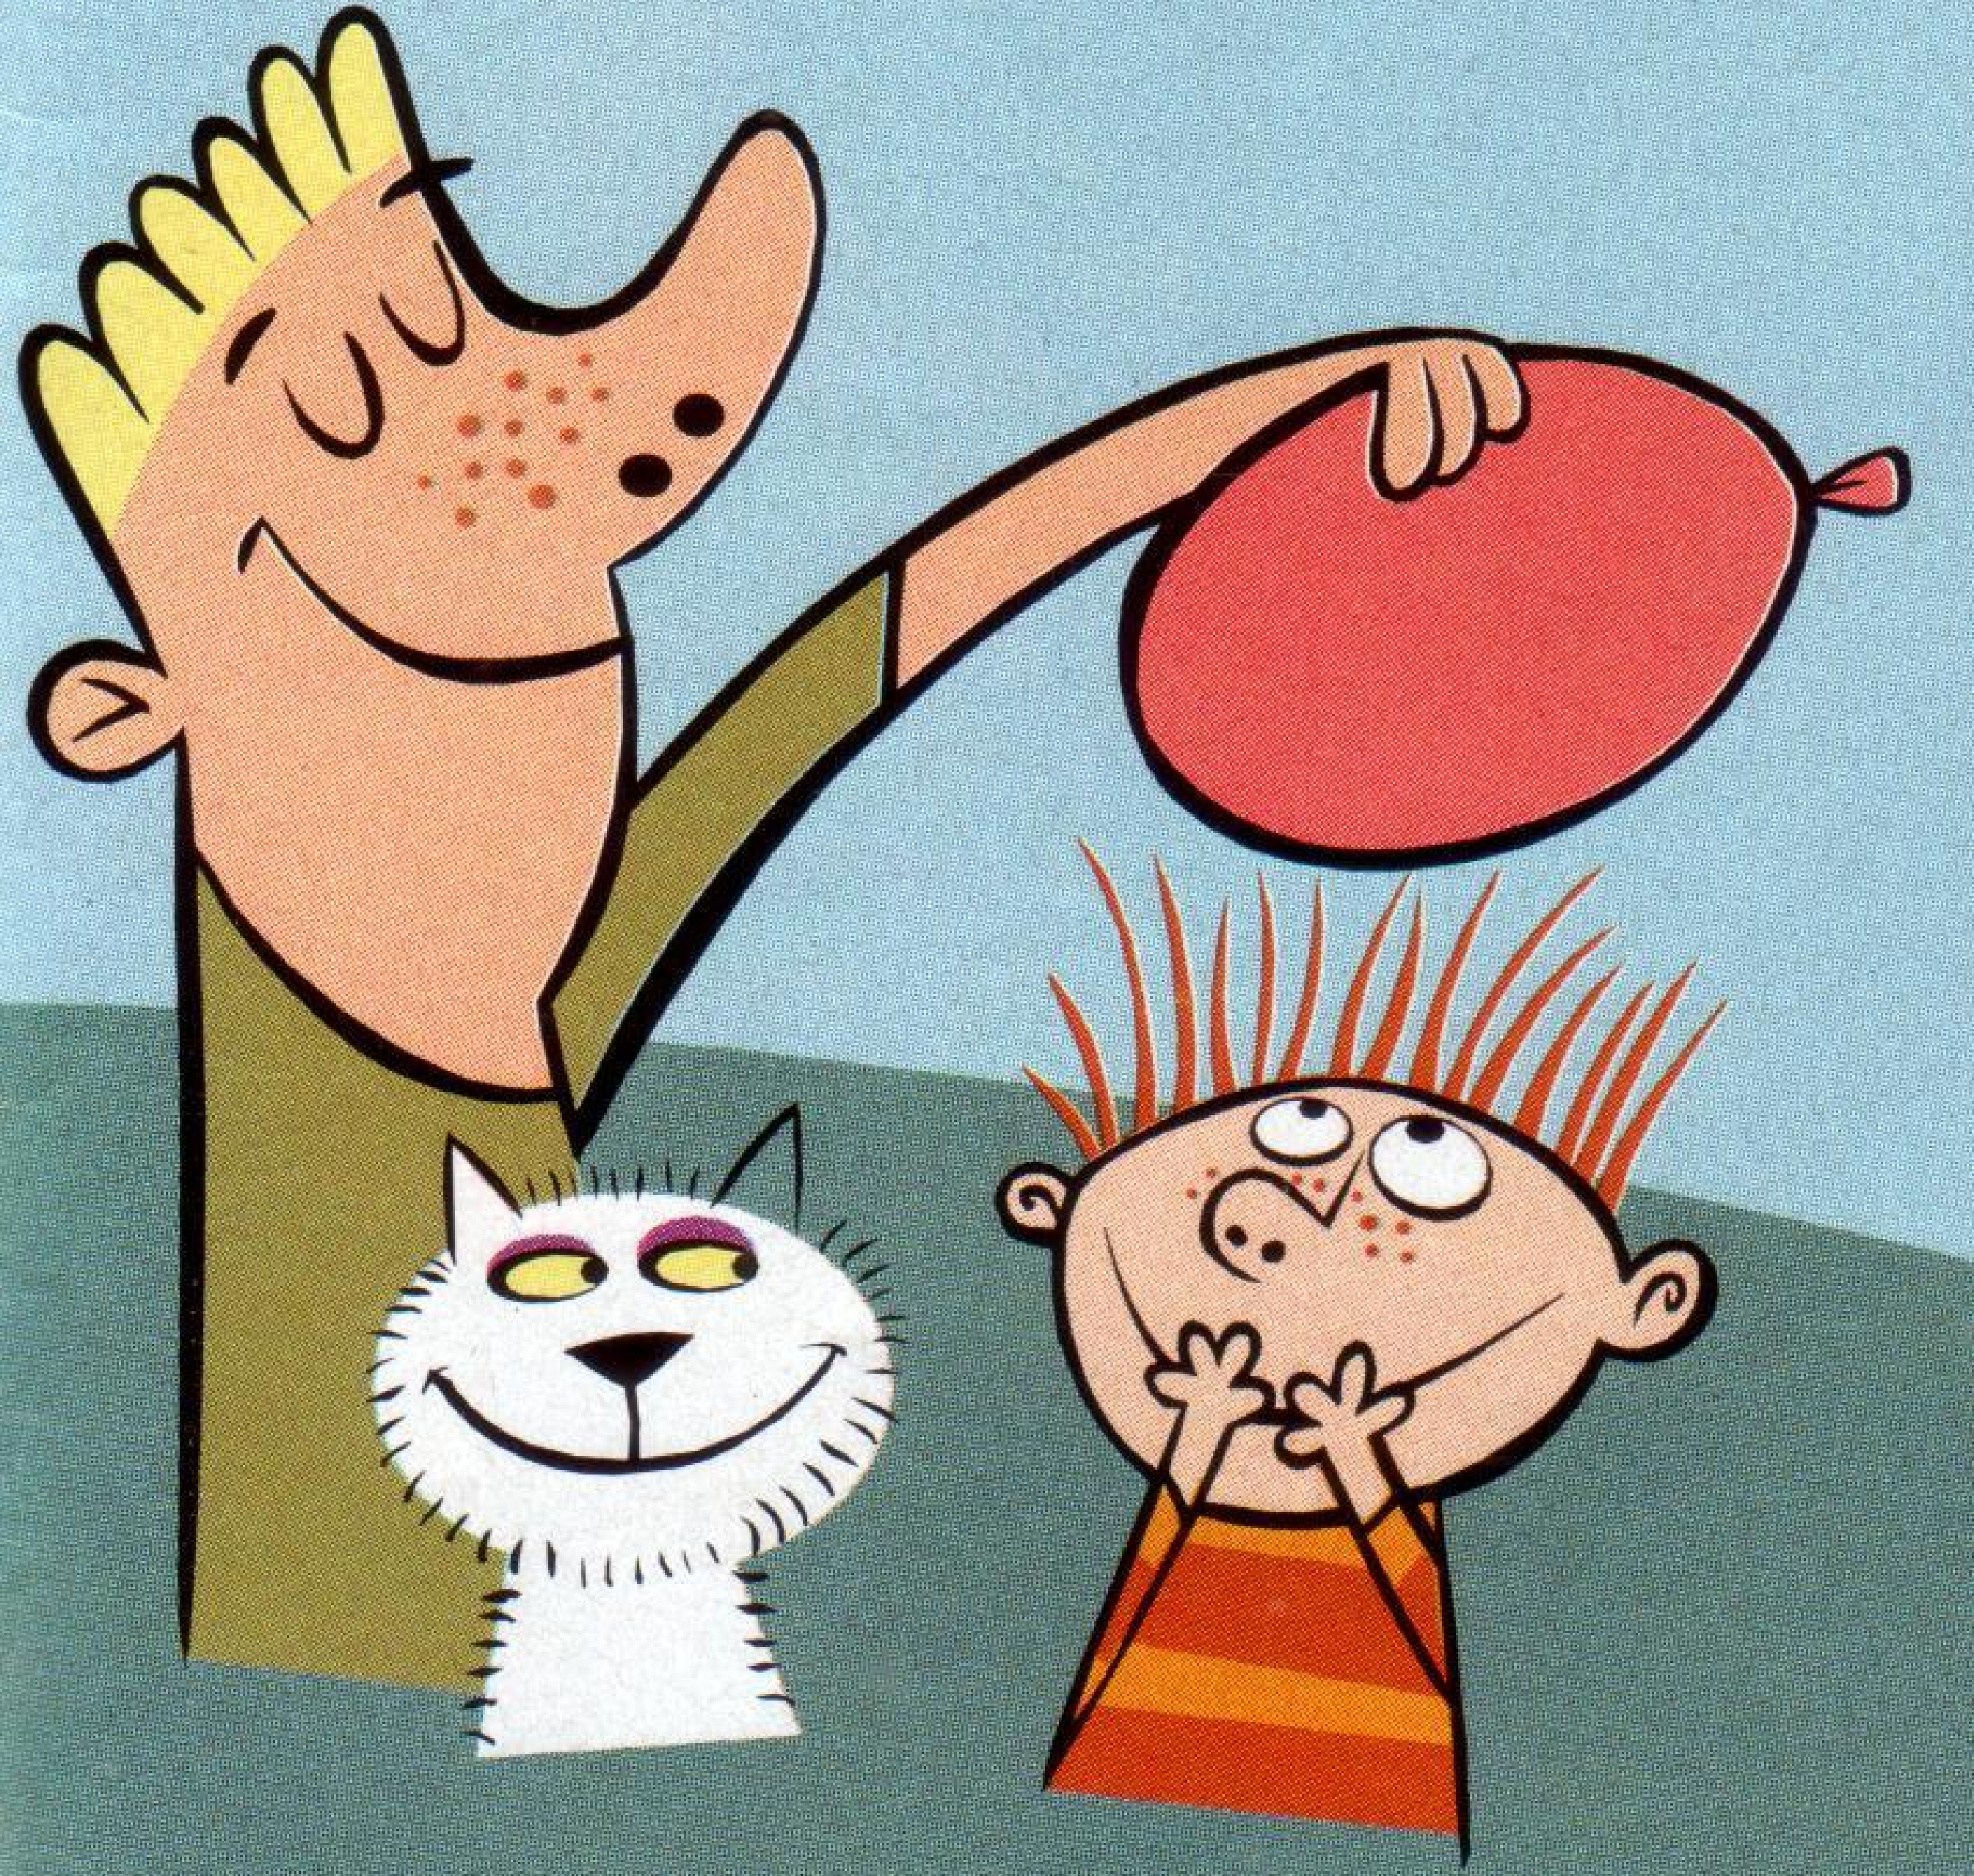
Hi, Power Ranger fans! Just thought I'd take a break from practicing my karate moves to show you some of my favorite science experiments.

They're easy and fun and safe to do at home.

All you need is a balloon.

You can choose any color but, naturally, I prefer blue.





"The moon is made of green cheese? No way!"

When was the last time somebody said you were "full of hot air"? Did you know what they meant? They probably said it after you told them something unbelievable, like "The moon is made of green cheese." Because the early balloonists used hot air to "stretch" balloons, people now talk about hot air to mean "stretching" the truth.

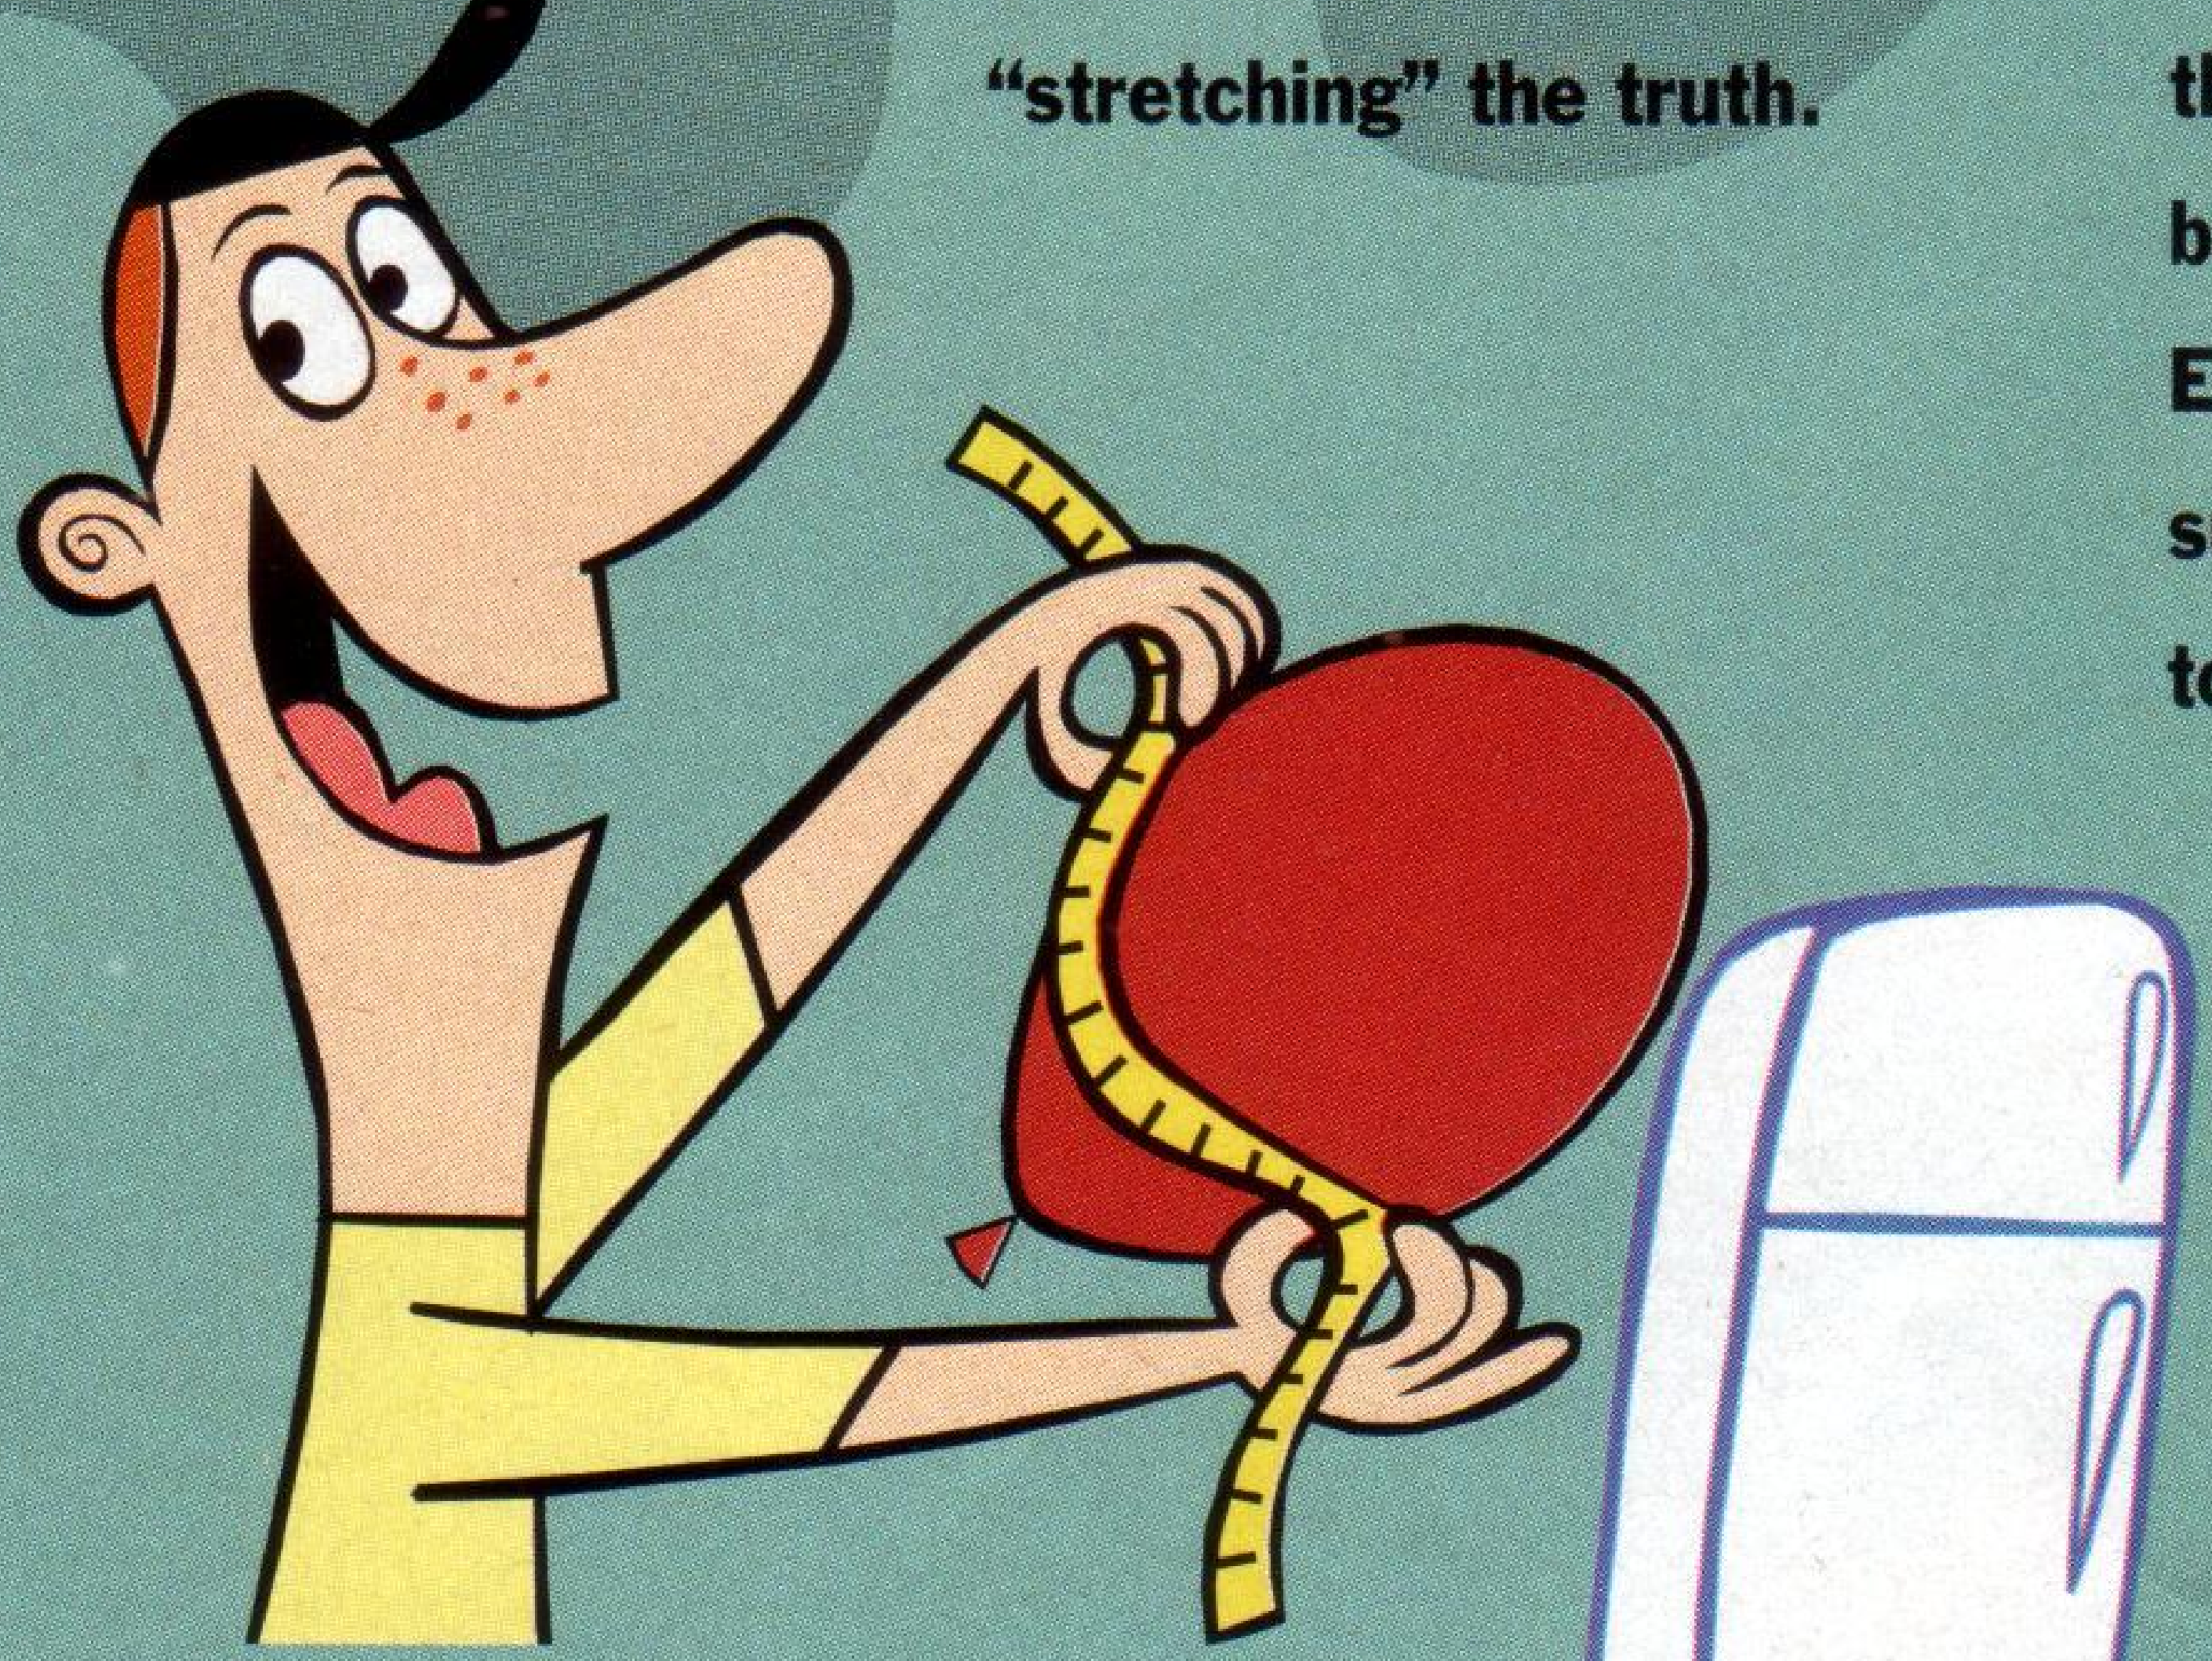
Up, Up, and Away

Balloons are fun to play with. They're stretchy and colorful. They're fun at birthday parties and fun to carry in the park or make funny sculptures with. But did you ever try to get inside one and fly away? That's what the Montgolfier brothers did. Back in 1783 they invented the hot air balloon. They filled a giant balloon made of cloth and paper with hot air. The heat made the air molecules move away from each other. When this happened more space was created inside the balloon. This meant the air in the balloon became lighter than the air outside the balloon, and the balloon could easily lift into the sky. Eventually someone tied a basket to such a balloon, climbed inside, and took the first-ever balloon ride. You might say the hot air balloon was the first airplane!

The Amazing Supercharged Magnetic Balloon

It's easy to turn a balloon into a powerful magnet. All you have to do is rub the balloon a few times on some fur or woolen cloth. (Your sweater will do nicely, but if you decide to use your cat or dog, ask their permission first. If they don't like the idea, they may end up bursting your balloon!) By rubbing the balloon, you create a charge of electricity on it—morphing it into a powerful magnet! Now place the balloon next to a friend's head and watch his hair stand on end as it is pulled by the supercharged magnetic balloon. Your friend will look as if he's just seen a ghost!

Here's another superpower you can give your balloon: After rubbing it against your sweater, place it on the wall—and leave it there. The electrical charge will stick the balloon to the wall!



The Amazing Morphing Shrinking Balloon

I call this last one "The Amazing Morphing Shrinking Balloon Test." Blow up a balloon. Then take a tape measure and measure around its middle. Now put the balloon in the refrigerator and go watch today's episode of Mighty Morphin Power Rangers. After 30 minutes, remove the balloon and measure it again. It's morphin' time! You'll see that it has shrunk! Why? Unlike hot air, which makes air molecules move away from each other (see "Up, Up, and Away" about hot air balloons), cold air makes air molecules snuggle up. Now the molecules take up less space inside the balloon, and the balloon can shrink.

Remember, balloons can be dangerous for kids under three. Please keep them away from your little brothers and sisters.

MORPHIN MAIL

Hey, Power Ranger fans! How do you like our magazine? What would you like to see in our pages? We want to hear from you! Here are some letters we received from fans just like you . . .

Dear Power Rangers,

I want to tell you what an honor it is to write to you. I watch your show all the time. I love your new shows. I had no idea that Rita had a brother called Rito Revolto. You took me completely by surprise.

—Sean Brown, Mesquite, Texas

Sean, you can find out more about Rito Revolto in our Spotlight.

Dear Morphin Mail,

I am nine years old. I think your magazines are great! My favorite Power Rangers are Kimberly, Tommy, and Aisha. I have one question. Which monster is the meanest?

—Zantia Archuleta, Alamosa, Colorado

Zantia, we asked the Rangers which monsters were the scariest and toughest to beat. Check out what they said in their interview, What's the Word?

Dear Morphin Mail,

I just got my first issue of your magazine and I love it! I have a question: Which Ranger is the shortest and which is the tallest? I want to know because I'm kind of short for my age.

—Ashley Rhew, Raleigh, North Carolina

Ashley, we're glad you like the magazine! Tommy, the White Ranger, is the tallest and Aisha, the Yellow Ranger, is the shortest. As one of the most popular Rangers, Aisha hasn't had any trouble being shorter than the others. Find out more about the real-life Aisha in this issue!

Dear Power Rangers,

I am one of your biggest fans. My name is Lendell Brenson. I've seen all of your shows. I have gotten 3 of your magazines. And there's one more thing, what are all of your zords in the movie?

—Lendell Brenson, Crystal Springs, Mississippi

Lendell, in the movie the Great Power gives the Power Rangers new animal zords. The new zords are Ninja zords and can be called using the power coins. The zords are: Ninja Ape Zord (Red Ranger), Ninja Bear Zord (Yellow Ranger), Ninja Frog Zord (Black Ranger), Ninja Crane Zord (Pink Ranger), Ninja Wolf Zord (Blue Ranger), and Ninja Falcon Zord (White Ranger).
